

Let your light so shine before others that they may see your good works and glorify your Father in heaven. Matthew's sermon on the mount continues this week with a call to be salt and light. Being a beacon of light in the dead of winter is similar to bringing good news in the middle of the world's not so good news. To be light in God's world is to feed the hungry, care for the homeless, clothe the naked, finding a place to serve. As followers of Jesus, every day we are charged to share the light which scatters the darkness.

At our annual meeting following worship this Sunday, we will gather in Fellowship Hall for a potluck meal. The annual meeting will include reports from council members, as well as continued discussion on how the congregation will navigate into the future. A quorum of 60 members is needed in order to approve the budget and elect council leaders. Please consider attending and participating in this important aspect of our congregation.
